The Corporation dump was closed two days last week, much to the inconvenience of many villagers who are now trying to tidy up their surroundings after a long and damaging winter season. The dump was reopened Sunday and Parking prohibited at all times if the dumping privilege is not abused it will remain open.

The dump a project of the Bethel Village Corporation has come to be regarded as a necessity by many local people, and the slovenly use of the place by a few citizens reflects upon the rest. In fact the offenders are very few in number, but careless performance by these few overshadows the reasonable practices of the remainder.

The rules for the use of the dump are the same as they have been since the dump was estaolished. These rules are simple, necessary, reasonable, practical. It only is required that: all rubbish be dumped over the bank, no loose paper or dead animals be deposited on the dump, and that no fires be started.

Observance of these requirements will assure continuance of the dumping privilege. Otherwise it may be necessary to impose restrictions or make other arrangements.

EUROPE: Zero Hour

All the world tensed in anticipation of the U. S. and British invasion of western Europe, expected to coincide with other Allied thrusts in in eastern Poland.

As the enemy reported on huge concentrations of Allied shipping and navel formations in English waters, neutral sources quoted German strength at 90,000, men in Norway, 160,000 in Finland: 180,000 in the Balkans; 375,000 in Italy; 75,000 along the Mediterraneon coast, 450,-600 along the Atlantic wall, with 500.6% at strategic points in France. Germany and central Europe and finally 2,625,000 in Russia.

As the zero hour approached for the greatest battle in history, U. Department of Agriculture Officials Visit Chinese, Suggest Practical Methods Of Increasing Food Production.

> By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

Washington, D. C.

Out in Falls Church, Virginia, a little way from Washington, there lives a friend of mine who was brought up on a farm. Last, year, some new neighbors moved in next door - city folks, you could tell by looking at them, but full of pep and vinegar and very patriotic. They started out to make a victory gar-

My triend could tell by the way they handled their hoes that before long, they'd be asking him for ad-

He's a good neighbor, but he isn't nosey. So he just waited.

Well, it wasn't long before the man next door came up, leaned over the fence, and said: "How is it your garden is coming along so good and mine ain't?"

My friend smiled, and then he pitched in and told him some of the facts of plant life.

It isn't going to benefit my friend even if his neighbor's garden is a record breaker but he's a typical American and he's doing what we to teach the Chinese peasant that it all used to do back in the old days when neighbor depended on neighbor - giving a helping hand when it is needed.

Last week, I sat down across the desk from a big, black-haired fellow, who looks a lot younger than he is in years and wisdom. His name is Dr. Ralph W. Phillips.

When I talked with him, he had just returned from giving a little neighborly advice over the back fence to our Chinese neighbors. He's in charge of genetics investigations for the Department of Agriculture and he was loaned to the State department, along with some 21 other experts, to go over to China (at the invitation of the Chinese) to look around and see what ought to be

For you and me and most Americans, even those who don't know any more about a farm than to think "shorts" are just underwear, a cow that doesn't give milk wouldn't be much of a critter. But believe it or not, one of the results which it is glous freedom," the justice said, hoped Dr. Phillips' trip will achieve adding that if the doctrines of the is to explain to the Chinese why cows have udders.

The Chinese know many things which we don't know, but Phillips has put between the covers of a book now being printed in China, a lot of things that the Chinese never knew before. He got his facts first hand, traveling over most of the unoccupied parts of China with the Chinese Minister of Agriculture and a good interpreter, and collated them against his own expert knowledge of animal husbandry. But as he said to me, if you know anything about a cow, a sheep or a horse, to go as for as Representative Mans you don't need an interpreter to tell

It was a hot day in Washington when I interviewed Dr. Phillips and

"I'm a shirtsleeve diplomat," he said to me. When I learned a little more of the details of his particular job. I you had to take off your coat and miles over what the Chinese laughingly call roads, in ancient automobiles, and a good many miles on the back of a very tough Mongollan

This friendly, easy-going shirtsleeve scientist typines a new order - he is part of a new, honest effort (as one member of the State department said to me) "to establish a relationship of people to people" rather than a relationship of diplomat to diclomat, or government to government

Dr. Phillips witnessed the effects of the great integration of the Functions of the bank in which the Chinese government followed by its universities, its people, its indusand northwestern China about which very little was known and with which the rulers of China heretofore

In the crowded eastern provinces,

WNU Service, Union Trust Building | small farming and very small farming, indeed, is the chief activity. In the west, there are great grasslands better adapted to the raising of stock. Animal husbandry in China must meet one immediate problem, and that is, increasing and improving production in the western part of the country and breeding for restocking in the areas which will be re-occupied when the Japanese are driven out.

The heavy demands for food by the American military, to say nothing of China's own soldiers, make it necessary for the Chinese to increase food production to the utmost. At present, however, Dr. Phillips reported that except for the famine areas where drouth or insects have affected the crops, the Chinese people have more food available than is popularly believed.

But they aren't making the most of their cows and pigs and chickens. As to the Chinese cow, about which Dr. Phillips spoke with great feeling, one of the first things to do is gives milk and that milk is a pretty good food. And then to improve the present, the cow is a beast of burden, a draft animal. However, it cult to improve the breed so that it will be more efficient as a beast of

Of course, the Nomadic people who live on the great plains of northern China, who live from their herds, use the milk as food, mostly dried in the form of casein. They also store butter. They have the yak and a hybrid animal, a cross between a yak and a cow, which is called a "pian-niu," burden and as a milk giver at the same time.

The chickens in China aren't much to crow about either, I take it, from Dr. Phillips' description, If they lay only 50 to 60 eggs a year, nobody complains. There, too, breeding from selected types that China already has would be a great Dr. Phillips likes the Chinese donkeys and in spite of personal experiences on their backs, thinks Mongolian horses have possibilities. Very good mules are produced by crossing the Mongollan mare and the donkey. But the Mongolian horse is a little, tough-mouthed, flat-withered, crooked-legged animal which could be greatly improved with inter-breeding with a good saddle horse strain.

No Ordered Effort

Dr. Phillips had first-hand experience with these little animals whose ancestors were tough enough to carry Ghangis Khan across Asia but are too tough to follow the bridle if they get other ideas.

Up until now, there seems to have been no ordered effort by the representatives of any other foreign country to assist in the improvement of Chinese livestock. Missionaries here and there have introduced better grades which have had an influence in the immediate vicinity, German missionaries brought in some nice fat pigs. Others introduced good chickens and cows. But these were only a drop in the bucket.

The Chinese Department of Agriculture itself is a new thing and has very little background of training or experience. Perhaps the one most important influence has been the exchange established between Cornell university and the University in Nanking. A number of experts in agriculture have been trained at Cornell and have gone back to China.

Naturally with such a large proportion of the population illiterate, it will be exceedingly difficult to spread the information even when the Chinese leaders themselves are trained.

The present Chinese government, despite the fact that almost every ounce of energy has to be turned toward fighting the war, has shown an interest evidenced by the welcome reception given the various American representatives, and the United States on its side has sought to improve its relations between people and extend its influence by this activity which is a part of the cultural relations program.

PREIGHT RATES THE PRESENT FEDERAL TAX on commodity transportation costs is far from equitable for all sections of the nation. Transportation on a bushel of wheat from Montana to the sea coast is much greater than from states further east. The transportation tax on that bushel of Montana wheat is more than on the wheat grown farther east, and the former pays that difference in the price he gets for his wheat. Justus Craemer of the California State Railroad commission proposes a tax on the basis of weight of commodities of different freight classifications. All products of any one classification would pay the same tax regardless of the distance transported. That would be equitable for all.

FEDERAL OWNERSHIP AFTER THE WAR'

THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT has invested more than 20 billion dollars in war industrial plants which will be useless for the purpose for which they were erected when the war is over. In many cases these plants are but additions to smaller plants that were in existence before the war. In but few cases have the plants been directly operated by the government but have

What will happen to this array of private industry.

These plants are distributed among thousands of communities, and each community in which one is located has a direct interest in the problem of its disposal. There is one illuztration left over from World War I that can provide a basis for consideration. Hoboken, N. J., is a waterfront town in the New York harbor area. In it were located the docks of the North German Lloyd seized those docks as alien property. That was more than 25 years ago, and the government still holds them 25 years the little city of Hoboken of the town.

FERTILIZER VIA C.O.D.

resentatives in California, and possibly in other states, are advising farmers to buy fertilizer and take a receipt for the cost and amount, with a promise that the government will refund the cost in 1945 from the agricultural department appropriation of next year. In California, where citrus and other fruit and vegetable ranches represent small acreage, the promise is to refund the cost of sulphur fertilizer to the extent of one ton per acre up to ten acres. For snything beyond ten acres the refund to be 25 per cent of the cost. It remains to be seen what congress will say about it, and that, of course, depends on who is elected to congress in November. It puts aid to the farmers on a CO.D. basis.

TO, AT THIS TIME, BUY a new atlas on the presumption the end of the war will not see new national boundaries is presuming more than can be reasonably expected. There will be new boundary lines in Europe, in Asia, Africa and the islands of the seven seas. We are not an imperiolistic nation but when it is all over the American flag will replace the banner of the Rising Sun on many a Pacific isle. Some of the small nations will have disappeared from the map of Europe, colonies in Africa will change.

TTAKES an actor to direct an actor," says Irving Cummings. Well, he should know, Cummings spent years on the stage and screen before he directed such motion picture hits as "What a Woman!" and "My Gai Sal." He believes that a man who has worn grease paint himself understands a performer's problems better than one whose experience has been limited solely to wielding a megaphone, and how right he is!

"Actors require understanding by a director if they are to feel at ease and give the best that's in them." says Cummings.

Irving Cummings

On the set of "The Impatient Years" Cummings was directing Jean Arthur and Lee Bowman. The scene was a law court. Jean and Lee were asking for a divorce. Bowman is a returned soldier who arrived from overseas to discover that the marriage with Jean was perhaps hasty. Theirs is a whirlwind wedding after a four-day courtship, then the soldier goes abroad. When he returns the girl and boy are total strangers. It's a cuts let him gain a lot. While we were waiting for the lights to be adjusted for the next setup Cummings went on about the actors-directing theory.

Oft-Stolen Masterpiece

No great work of art has been stolen more often than "The Adoration of the Lamb," the altarpiece of the Cathedral of St. Bavon in Ghent, says Collier's. Between 1432 and 1781, it remained undisturbed, but since then all or several of its panels have disappeared and been recovered many times.

In 1940, this masterpiece was sent to France for safekeeping and, in 1943, it was presented to Goering by the Vichy government.

It came like a tossing wave with every horse thrown forward in the same instant. The Chevennes rode flat, their black heads hardly above their animals' manes. A drumming on the earth ran ahead of them, nothing more. They didn't yell, and it was that unexpected deadly silence that made his blood run cold.

Even with Quarternight's calm voice warning him, "Take it easy," he dropped in his saddle and swung up the long barrel of his gum. He knew what Quarternight was counting on. For many years the people o Bethel village have taken pride in the trees which line their streets. The stately elms and other beautiful trees have been reminders of the town's early days when fore-sighted citizens envisioned the possibilities of their chosen village a century in advance.

The ravages of time, with occasional careless inattention ad the encroachments of modern en terprise, have during recent years removed many of these monu-ments of the village forefathers. The destructive snowstorm of last November wrought untold dam age. Alhough an appropriation by the Village Corporation will do what may be possible to restore the trees along the streets, it is the duty of property owners to look after hundreds of other trees which have outlered as much and which should in many cases be removed

In Tribute to Their Memories

Why Farmers Should Buy and Hold War Bonds

by Charles H. Merchant Head, Dept. of Agricultural Economics University of Maine

WEARE winning this global [wer but final victory may be a long way off. We all hope the end is near, but we must plan for a long wor, one which may lost two or more years. Certainly, it is Debenet ring to think that much theur that of on both the Euroif is, accompanied by long cosu-aty lists. Unitensant on this outel: al cars it is much better than being englaved by the mur-der up and plandering dictators of Germany and Japan.

Hitler was right when he stated that this would be a total war. All of us must share its responsibilities and endure its many socriflees. Unfortunately, all of us cannot share them equally. It is the farmer's job and his part in this war to produce farm products as never before, under the most trying and difficult conditions.

In some countries food produced by farmers is taken away from them, but here in America farmers in general receive good prices for their farm products. Some of the extra money received should go into the purchase of War Bonds for the financing of this war. All must buy War Bonds, for our boys at the front must be the best trained and equipped fighters in the world, It is much better to sacrifice material and equipment than the life of your boy or that of your neighbor's son on the bat-proud to share in this privilege. In fact, we should sacrifice to buy as many War Bonds as possible. The Bonds farmers buy will help to shorten the war and at the same time form the soundest investment ever known. These Bonds will give the greatest return to farmers and others if they are held until maturity. Also by hold-ing them you will help materially in preventing inflation now and after the war.

Let us pause just a moment and analyse the situation. In general, farmers have surplus funds with which they would like to buy machinery, equipment, and many other things for the farm and the home. But all of these things are not available in the quantity desired. Therefore, farmers simply must go without them at least until they become available. It is just common sense that all of the like to buy, and many of then desperately needed, will not be available the day after the war is over or even within a year, Dur-ing this time and probably longer I feel there is going to be a strong demand and good prices for farm products. Hence, most farmers will want to hold their War Bonds.

In sizing up the entire situation it looks like good sound business for farmers to buy all the War Bends possible and plan to hold them until maturity unless the cash is desperately needed. Thus, farmers are helping their country in financing the war and in pre-venting inflation by helping them-

I picked up a Pacific Rural Press it was telling about a question naire for the farmers. It is headed, I. S. Department of Agriculture Bareau of Agricultural Economics Rudget Bureau No. 40 4414 The paper says if you like humor, don't miss this pamphlet. Send for it, to 2082 Center Street, Borkeley 1, Calif.

The questions cover everything except whether a farmer and his wife wash behind their ears. The Cost wants to know how many eard parties each farmer attended tard parties each farmer attenued that year How many pients. How many pients. How many close friends does he have, and their names, and to what church do they belong: likewise, himself. How often does he vient them. What does he do when he does visit. Running Away From It All

Bell Syndicate. -- WNU Features.

She may be the humblest worker of all our 30 million working women.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

AM envious of my husband, his sisters, brothers and friends," writes Ann from Boston, "and as a result I am half-sick with misery, resentment and hate.

"I married 'way above any expectations a girl like myself might have," her letter goes on. "Herbert is the youngest son of a very rich family; there are six perfect servants in this house; I have nothing to do. We live with his mother, a widowed sister, and her three half-grown children. Everyone else has children. I was in a motor accident in the middle of my first pregnancy, never can have a child. This broke Herbert's heart (he was driving), and his mother's heart, too. Nobody cared about my

Unhappy Wife Should Leave.

That's the letter, and id answer I say that there are circumstances wher the only cure for daily, hourly miseries of Jeniousy and suffering is to get out. Such a case is that of the office clerk who is brought into constant contact with the married employer with whom she is in love. or the mother who cannot stand by and see an adored ignorant lille extravagant new wife make her son

Ann has an excellent argument in that Herbart is calmly leaving her | find work friends, amusement. And, to join the armed forces. He is justified; he probably did not even consult her about the step. A war is on, and men are needed

- But wamen are needed, too, and Ann is equally justified in going off to had work of her own Hard work: work that will bring her into contact with wamen working as hard as she. The WACs, perhaps, or the WAVES. Or let her get right on the assembly line in one of the thisiands of new factories, foundries or machine

With her changed clothes, environment, contacts, friendships she will find herself again Her deadened personality will develop, self-confidence and good simple common sense will return. She may be the humblest worker of all our 30,000,000 working women: the small of victory may never hear of her, but she will play her part, just as the Unlest ros and pin and serow of a great balifeship plays its part, and success

A DIFFERENT KIND OF CRISIS

"Members of his family all speak languages, have traveled, know about books and music-it all comes easy to them. I am not even grammatical; I've had no chance to improve. Nobody is unkind to me, but nobody needs

That is the unhappy predicament in which Ann finds herself. She married the son of a very rich family, and now he's going to war. She knows that she will not be happy living with his family. According to Miss Norris, Ann is justified in going off to find work of her own. Hard work, work that will bring her into contact with other women working as hard as she does. Or she might join the WACS armed forces. And if Ann is wise, she will begin to study serious, to improve herself in every possible way. And a different type of family might have sensed the predicament of the youngest member-Ann was just 17 when she married, and have made it easier for her. Some sister-in-law, some one of the younger nunts and cousins might have taken Ann under her wing, helped her along the hard path. But evidently Few grains cayenne, if desired Ann was not capable of absorbing the culture all about her, of enjoying her adventure, and evidently the hard-shelled Social Registerites didn't feel inclined to make any effort in the direction of Herbert's

So the best thing to do, for the duration anyway, is to break away, If Ann is wise, she will begin to atudy seriously on the aide, improve her pronunciation, her choice of terms, her knowledge of good books

But in Aon's case these elements don't exist. Through no fault of her own she is childless, and temporarily husbandless She has every right to find for herself a happier set of circumstances. If she can be generous enough to do this without Jeopardizing the dignity of the family, if she can manage to maintain a friendly correspondence with her mother in-law, and go home for an occasional visit, she will be sure to find her own place secure and important in the circle after the war.

Industrial Accidents

In one aircraft plant the accident rate for 11 months of 1943 was almost identical, 5.51 per 1,000 men and 5.52 per 1,000 women. When Increases in accidents to women are reported they are generally found to be due to locreases in the emplayment of Inexperienced workers, to improper guarding of machines or to lack of safety education. It also true that many such increase in accident frequency rates result from production speed-ups.

Southwestern Boys Eager to Finish Job And Get Back Home

By SGT. JIM SWARTZ JR.

The tender beauty of an English spring surrounds this American medium bomber station, but the fighting men from the U.S.A. are too busy with their big job to notice it. Most of these fellows come from the Southwest — Texas and Oklahoma—from the cattle ranches and oil fields.

I talked to a score of these fliers at a Marauder bomber station in rural England. I heard them re-live past experiences in the skies over Europe . . . spin their dreams of victory . . . and plan for a peaceful future back in their home towns in the Southwest.

And I saw a look of determination on the faces of these men that made me glad I wouldn't be one of the enemy when these Yanks from Texas and Oklahoma take their bombers to the Nazis' invasion front

Alex Owen is one of these fighting neighbors of yours. He came all the way from Tyler, Texas, to man a .50-caliber gun in this war, and he's the kind of lad you'd like to know. Alex enlisted in the air forces back in 1941, after making friends with countless citizens of Tyler from behind the counter in "Men's Clothing" at a local department store. Today he is a veteran tail gunner with 39 missions over France, Holland and Belgium to his credit. And he wears the coveted Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal and five Oak Leaf clusters. What does the Big Show mean to Alex Owen? Ask him and you'll get an answer as honest and straightforward as a fellow-Texan's word of "I wouldn't miss it for one helluva lot," he told me that day. "Sure, it's rough. We're not fighting a war with kid gloves on, man."

'Back to Tyler.'

That was Alex's story, and it's much like the one I heard from another Southwesterner that day at this American bomber base in rural England. His name engineer-gunner from Coweta, Oklahoma, a small, friendly town 30 miles from Tulsa.

Joe (officially, he is Staff Sergeant Joe W. Shouse) is a 22-year-old veteran of 35 missions, and he says the coming invasion can't start too soon. Back in 1941 and part of 1942, Joe was a sheet metal worker for the Spartan Aircraft company, in Tulsa. But when you mention postwar plans to the young Oklahoma gunner he says he has put them all on the shelf for the duration.

"I'm too excited about the job I've got now," Joe told me that day in his Nissen hut "home" at this Marauder base.

His hut-mates and fellow-gunners like to tell you how cool Joe is under fire, and after a brief conversation with him you agree with them. And when I left Joe that day I figured I'd met the "typical" fighting man from the Southwest.

Then, a few minutes later, in another Nissen hut, I met other air force men from your home towns ... and their stories are the kind you like to hear, too, because these neighbors of yours will all be in the aerial front lines when the big fight comes home to the Nazis. There were three Texans in that Nissen hat, and as you approach its front door you see this olgn over- tem firm in Houston head: "The thingsters' Roost: Texicans Included "

Walt (or "Chief," as he's known at this field) is one of the crack crew chiefs in his group. His ship, "Baby Bumps," has gone out on 53 missions without turning back, and the Chief, who is a former oil field roustabout from Dewey, Oklahoma, is plenty proud of that record. Walt likes to talk about such things as the coming invasion, and the day when he can go back to the Then Walt says he'll be ready to head back to Oklahoma. Is he going back to the oil fields? "Hell, yes," is the Chief's reply to that one.

As I was leaving walt with his second helping of steak and potatoes that day, he told me that I should have met the real hero of the Scott "tribe."

"He's my kid brother, Yoeman," Walt said, "Right now he's finishing up aviation training back home, but one of these days you'll be hearing

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE by Roger B. Whitman

Roger B Whitman-WNU Features. DUSTY CONCRETE FLOOR

Question: Some time ago you wrote about a mixture for laying the dust of a concrete cellar floor. Will you please repeat?

Answer: You can lay the dust by soaking the floor with a mixture of one part water glass in four parts of water. Make plenty of this mixture, so that it can be poured on the floor liberally, spread with a broom and the floor allowed to soak it up. At the end of some hours, wipe up any puddles that may remain. You may have to repeat the treatment within a day or two. But if you wish to paint the floor later on, water giass should not be used. If you should wish to paint, get a kind of paint that is proof against the effects of lime; for ordinary floor paint will not last on a basement floor if laid in the usual way.

LEAKING FLUSH TANK

Question: Our old-fashioned, hightype of wood flush tank is leaking, Could I use wood putty to mend it? Answer: Caulking compound would last longer. This is similar to putty (not wood putty) but never becomes hard or brutle. This compound is much used for repairing cutside leaks around window frames. It is forced into the crack with a your hardware store.

Oll Stain on Wooden Chest Question: I have a wooden chest that I was preparing to paint, when a large quantity of baby oil was spilled on it. Although I wiped it off with rags as soon as possible, quite a bit of it penetrated into the wood. Will the oll that remains in the wood affect the enamel finish that I am planning to apply on the

THAT'S JUST WHAT WAR BONDS ARE FOR!

EVERYBODY'S PLANNING. Recent farm surveys show that a majority of the people who own their own farms are ready, the minute war ends, to build and repair barns and buildings and make many other improvements. Tenants, too, are on the lookout for farms of their own to build on in the postwar period. This is going to take many millions of dollars. Wise farmers have been saving the money for these purposes. Many of them have saved it in War Bonds-and many more are on their way.

HOW TO GET READY. You probably have many places on the farm to put money when materials and machinery and equipment are again available -if you have the money! So why not start right now? Step up your savings by buying War Bonds—the best and safest way to invest for future needs.

WHEN THE BOYS COME HOME. Your youngster in service is doing a man's job now-and he expects to do a man's job when he gets home again. But he won't be happy with run-down buildings and inefficient equipment. So that's another good reason for stepping up your purchase of War Bonds. You're backing him up in his fight to preserve our country, and at the same time preparing for the kind of home he wants to come back to.

YOU NEVER GET LESS THAN YOU LEND! And you can get 14 more than you invest. When held 10 years, Series E War Bonds yield 29% interest compounded semi-annually. You get back $4 for every $3.

Of course, no one should cash a Bond unless he has to; but if an emergency comes alone, Uncle Sam will redeem them in cash— at full purchase price—any time after you've held them 60 days. BUY WAR BONDS! FACTS ABOUT WAR BONDS (Series E)
